Dead Sea, Jordan 22 May 2013 – The World Economic Forum on the Middle East and North Africa opens at the Dead Sea on 24 May. The three-day meeting, convening under the theme Advancing Conditions for Growth and Resilience, will focus on shaping the region ' s economic, social and governance systems of the future.

The meeting will convene over 900 leaders from the Gulf region, the Levant, North Africa and internationally. Representatives of business, government, civil society, youth and media will come together to better understand and discuss the greater region ' s challenges like youth unemployment, transparency, income disparity, private sector development and infrastructure.

This year ' s programme has been shaped around three core areas: new partnerships for employment, entrepreneurship and infrastructure; strengthening economic governance; and advancing regional cooperation and resilience.

Børge Brende, Managing Director at the World Economic Forum, says: “ Building on Jordan ’ s recognized role in the region, the aim of the 2013 meeting is to drive the dialogue necessary to overcome long-standing fault lines and foster the spirit of cooperation. It is essential that everybody in the greater region realizes the urgent need for collaboration to navigate through these turbulent times. ”
